18:19:23 From Sue Weldon to Everyone:
Albumin

18:31:38 From Marcia Fisher to Everyone:
Would love to hear about the therapeutic options for brca negative besides Avastin.

18:32:01 From Dana Kurtbek to Everyone:
General question: after surgery and chemo we now are looking for maintenance and as a braca negative person everything that has been offered to me seems to be used for breast cancer first and then suggested that I try it-are there many options for specifically ovarian?

18:34:26 From Marie Hamilton to Everyone:
Please address the less common ovarian carcinosarcoma

18:35:39 From Dana Kurtbek to Everyone:
what drug is Alicia taking?

18:35:52 From Jeanice Hansen to Everyone:
Can you talk about any new treatment options for Clear Cell OC?

18:36:10 From Alicia Dellario to Everyone:
I am taking Lynparza - Astra Zeneca.

18:37:07 From Marcia Fisher to Everyone:

I unfortunately recurred on Lynparza already and looking for something else. I don't tolerate Avastin unfortunately.

18:39:11 From Alicia Dellario to Everyone:

I am so sorry to hear that Marcia. I don't tolerate Avastin either.

18:40:00 From Kate Lizzul to Everyone:

Is maintenance therapy now recommended for stage 1 hgsoc?

18:40:15 From Sue Weldon to Alicia Dellario(Direct Message):

I love that you re answering chat- women will love this personal connection. Thank you

18:40:37 From Alicia Dellario to Everyone:

Hi Dana Kurtbek. I am BRCA-Negative (and HRD positive) and Lynparza has been successful for me.

18:40:37 From Dana Kurtbek to Everyone:

what is the name of the drug?

18:40:46 From Mark Shahin to Everyone:

pemetrexed

18:50:20 From Marie Hamilton to Everyone:

Only biomarker for my wife's carcinosarcoma is pdl1 at cps2. Her recurrence had pr to 9 taxol/carbo treatments. One doc recommended keytruda but insurance approval difficult. Other doc is using niraparib but getting bad rashes. We're confused.

18:51:50 From Mark Shahin to Everyone:

1st line maintenance is recommended for all stage III and IV patients, At this time, there is no recommendations for stage I patients. Stage II is controversial and is dependent on the practitioner, I tend to advise the maintenance

18:58:22 From carol Rutar to Everyone:

My doc is just monitoring my ca125. After 6 TC chemos he says there's no reason to think it will come back. I was stage 2B & I feel like I'm just waiting for a relapse. :-/

18:59:54 From Dana Kurtbek to Everyone:

Carol-I feel the same way-after the initial diagnosis, surgery and chemo are over all of the sudden we are basically on our own.

19:00:16 From Denise Ellis to Everyone:

I agree

19:00:46 From Jill Eller to Everyone:

As a patient couldn't agree more -data on a portal is terrifying !

19:01:07 From Dana Kurtbek to Everyone:

Why do we have instant access? as a patient I would prefer to not get the results on a Saturday night and be left to google everything on my own.

19:02:14 From Sue Weldon to Everyone:

Could not agree more, just experienced this personally and was shocked at this new access I had without doctors input. I had data within an hour.

19:03:43 From Joan Gummels to Everyone:

I personally prefer to get the reports prior to the GYN OC meeting so I have questions answered. The meetings are too short to both absorb the info and articulate questions.

19:03:47 From Dana Kurtbek to Everyone:
do doctors get offended when we request second opinions?

19:04:18 From Dr. Cecelia Boardman to Everyone:
I welcome second opinions. It often adds valuable perspective

19:04:50 From Heather MATTINSON to Everyone:
I agree w/ Joan

19:05:42 From Dana Kurtbek to Everyone:
